SHE WANTED TO DIE.

A Young Woman Found Suffering

From Hysterics.

Sunday afternoon a good-looking young

voman entered Bell's drug store on South

Tenth street near the Union Pacific tracks

and asked for seven one-fourth grain morphine powders. The attendant, as is customary in such cases, asked her if she had a prescription, to which she replied that she had not. The next question propounded was whether or not she was acquainted with the nature of the drug, to which her answers were satisfactory. The clerk gave her three grains. Shortly after this occurrence a young man came into the store and breathlessly inquired for a physician. Dr. Miller being the nearest medical man, he was directed to his office, and flew out in quest of him in as great haste as he arrived. The doctor was informed that a young lady had attempted to commit suicide, and was taken across the tracks to a boarding house kept by a family named Vinston, where he found the young woman mentioned in the agonies of approach ing death. She was suffering from nervous hysterics only, and the doctor administered bromide and departed.

bromide and departed.

Who the woman is is a mystery. A reporter who learned of the above occurrence yesterday started to probe the matter. At Bell's store the purchase of the morphine and the physician's visit were verified. A call at Dr. Miller's office developed the fact that the woman had taken none of the morphine. The young woman's boarding house then received attention. Mrs. Vinston the landlady who young woman's boarding house then received attention. Mrs. Vinston, the landlady, who resides on the northeast corner of Ninth and Pacific, was seen, and in reply to questions stated that the young woman mentioned was in the house but was asleep. "Could the reporter see her?" "Oh, no," the young lady was not in a condition to be disturbed.

"What was her name?" She did not know. The woman only came on Saturday. A vol.

"What was her name?" She did not know. The woman only came on Saturday. A volley of questions failed to move her and the scribe meandered down the street. Two women who were weeding a lettuce bed volunteered the information that the morphine-taker was from lowa. That a young married man, a telegraph operator, had been criminally intimate with her and that she had become encientes. She had besought him to help her but he had refused, hence she had taken the morphine hoping to hide her shame. It is since learned hoping to hide her shame. It is since learned that the operator has skipped. The man was seen to go down Pacific street with her Sun-day and she was heard to exclaim, "I wish you would get me out of this," to which he replied, "Oh, d—n it, you were to blame; I won't help you a bit." At these words the girl is said to have burst into tears and left him, after which it is supposed she went back and took the deadly drug.

A detective is now at work upon the case.

Strong Attempt to Allay Indignation Concerning the Motor.

JUDGE WRECKED BY DRINK.

The Usual Batch of Petty Offenders-Broadway to Be Lighted to the River-Short Items and Personals.

The Motor Muddle.

Several interested and energetic workers are busily engaged in trying to soothe the raffled feelings of Council Bluffs, and allay the indignation so freely expressed in regard to the motor line. All the railways have agreed to let the motor line cross their tracks, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul alone refusing. Their obstenacy has caused the motor line to stop, and the Manawa hotel to close. The other enterprises here are so crippled that the howl has gone up, wild and crippled that the howl has gone up, wild and prolonged. The citizens are excitedly asking why the Milwaukee & St. Paul refuses to do as the other railways have agreed. The few paid representatives of this railway, fluding that the feeling is so hot, are trying to set the tide the other way. Many express the belief that when the managers of the Milwaukee & St. Paul fully understand the situation here they will consent to have the motor line cross their tracks on the same conditions cross their tracks on the same conditions which the other roads have agreed to. They also predict that when they thus learn how they have been misled in regard to the mat-ter there may be changes in the local repre-sentatives of that road. Perhaps the possi-bility of such a showing of facts, and such a change may account for the remarkable ac-tivity shown in trying to allay the indignation.

One well known citizen remarked yesterday: "It's the worst thing that has happened Council Bluffs. I was down the road the other day and I heard a lot of talk about it. At Creston, in the hotel, there were several fellows talking about it. They were giving it to Council Bluffs red hot because the citizens would quietly submit to having one railway dictate to the town and choke off any enterprise which it wanted to. They made so many remarks about Council Bluffs made so many remarks about Council Bluffs men being mere putty to submit to such a thing that I was actually ashamed to say that I was from Council Bluffs. I hear folks out of town say that if Council Bluffs wants the Manawa line, what in the thunder are they thinking of to let any one railway company stop it. I don't know why." A strong pressure was being brought to bear yesterday to induce the local press to see the matter through the same eye-glasses as the railway officials. What effect this has had will probably be evidenced in the col-umns of the several papers thus approached.

Before the Bar.

Nine victims obeyed the order of Jailor Barhyte to "fall in" yesterday morning when Judge Aylesworth appeared in police court to conduct the Monday morning review. Several of them had obtained sufficient booze to get gloriously full, notwithstanding the fact that the saloons were all closed on Sunday and the court was thus enabled to gather in a neat little sum for the city treasury by practically applying the prohibition clause of the statutes.

Maggie Peterson, alias Jennie Aldrich charged with being drunk, was released and idvised to try a change of climate. Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Bur-loo, the pugnacious trio from Twelfth street, were on hand again. Mrs. Burloo declared with tears in her eyes that she had done her best to induce her husband to come up and be locked up to serve out her fine, but he had interposed strenuous objections. The court granted her until next Saturday for further persuasion. Mrs. Woods was also fined $0.60 for her portion of the row and Mrs. Collins was discharged, having been the innocent cause of all the trouble.

Wrecked by Whisky. Judge Parks, who has been one of the prominent attorneys in Illinois, recently visited this city, and the Sycamore republican thus gives further details of his career: "We have received the following communication from Council Bluffs concerning Judge Parks: The judge was in Council Bluffs and Omaha the first of last week, out of money and dissipating. He made it known to the legal fraternity and old soldiers here that he had once been mayor of Aurora and a popular lawyer. He said he wanted to go to the soldier's home in Virginia, and there try to brace up and re-form. The legal fraternity and soldiers here and at Omaha provided the old veteran and judge with money and a ticket to Virginia, put him aboard the train and started him thither, wishing him a good journey and trusting he would again mend his ways.""
